UK WOMAN ARRESTED FOR FILMING INSIDE EMPTY HOSPITAL

UK Woman Arrested For Filming Inside Empty Hospital

Video contradicts government assertion of overrun wards.

30 December, 2020 Paul Joseph Watson

A woman in the UK was arrested by police after she filmed a video inside an almost completely empty hospital and posted it online.

The clip shows the woman walking through virtually empty corridors and filming empty wards at Gloucestershire Royal Hospital.

“This is a disgrace...it is so dead...all the people in our country desperately waiting for treatment, cancer treatment heart disease, honestly this is making me so angry,” she states as she films a row of empty waiting chairs.

The woman expressed shock at how quiet the hospital was, saying she expected there to be “a few more people around, there’s absolutely nobody.”

According to reports, a 46-year-old woman was subsequently arrested by police for filming the video and has been charged on suspicion of a public order offence.

“The woman has been bailed to return to police on 21 January, with conditions that she cannot enter any NHS premises or the grounds of any such premises, unless in the case of an emergency or to attend a pre-arranged NHS appointment,” said a statement by Gloucestershire Police.

While the footage shows the inside of the hospital to be virtually empty, UK health authorities have continually asserted that the NHS is at risk of being “overwhelmed” as a result of rising COVID-19 infections. NHS England says that there are now more COVID-19 patients in hospitals than there were during the April peak of the first wave. However, public data shows that hospitals are indeed emptier than at this time last year, with beds being at 89% occupancy compared to 95% occupancy in December 2019. In regions across the country, critical care occupancy rates are also lower than the 3 year average.

Almost all of the emergency Nightingale hospitals that were built at a cost of £220million to handle overflow COVID patients were never used and are now being dismantled.

Many have also questioned why nurses have had time to perform carefully rehearsed and choreographed dances for social media clout, with family members of cancer victims who have been denied treatment complaining about their insensitivity.

(End of report)

Empty hospitals are the norm all over the world. These empty hospitals are loud evidence for the shenanigans of the Covid plotters. These hospitals belie the official narratives regarding the ‘first wave’, ‘second wave’, and perhaps a ‘third’ devil’s wave.

Despite glaring and mounting evidence exposing the massive devilish conspiracy underlying the cruel covid fraud, the vile bootlicking molvis and sheikhs remain steadfast in their villainy of peddling the satanic corona wares of the evil plotters. These moron ulama-e-soo’ who have sold their Imaan at the altar of a few dollars are the most ardent and zealous pedlars of the satanic potion – the haraam poison and najaasat called vaccines. They are the most treacherous enemies of the Ummah. Beware of these shayaateen of Hizbush Shaitaan (The Legion of Iblees).
